About the IES

We are the Institution of Environmental Sciences, a membership organisation representing professionals from across the full spectrum of environmental disciplines.

The IES is a membership organisation representing and supporting professionals from fields as diverse as air quality, land condition and education, wherever you find environmental work underpinned by science.

We lead debate, dissemination and promotion of environmental science and sustainability, and promote an evidence-based approach to decision and policy making to stand up for science, scientists and the natural world.

We believe the application of scientific principles deepens our understanding of the natural environment and sustainable development.

Committed to excellence, we exist to serve our members and the public, constantly seeking innovation and distinction in the services we provide.

In upholding the standards and importance of the profession, we maintain a position not only to advocate for environmental science but to act as a catalyst for improvement. We seek to identify an inspirational vision for the profession as a whole and the strategic direction to implement this.

The Land Condition Symposium provides you with a platform to demonstrate your commitment, not just to the environment, but to the science which underpins it, indicating your consideration of the issues behind current environmental problems.

Being part of the Symposium provides you with an excellent opportunity to connect with the environmental community, build brand awareness and engage with your target audience of buyers and decision makers.
